

HAIR LOSS AND COVID-19
DR. ERICA STEVENS, DERMATOLOGIST, BAYLOR SCOTT & WHITE HEALTH

{INTRO}

Are you experiencing an increase in hair-loss, and recently had COVID-19?
The two could be linked.

{TAKE FILE VO}

Dr. Erica Stevens with Baylor Scott & White says COVID-19 can put a big strain on your body- and that can cause more of your hair to fall out than normal. But she says- don't worry- there is good news.

{TAKE SOT}

SOT TRT :11

Dr. Erica Stevens

Baylor Scott & White Health

"The good news is that it's a non-scarring hair loss, so it will recover because the follicles have not been damaged. Most of the time, we just allow it to run its course."

{TAG}

If you're uncertain whether your symptoms are linked to COVID-19- or something else- Dr. Stevens says a visit to a board-certified dermatologist may be the next step.